

ABSTRACT

Method and apparatus for upgrading imaging systems to accommodate replacement cameras. Replacement camera may be film-based or digital.

5 Computing device with specialized software manages image acquisition.

Parametric data, date, time and location of image acquisition may all be stored with image on computer readable media.